ENJOY A VARIETY OF GREAT NOVEMBER LECTURES AT THE NEW "HISTORY SUNDAYS" SERIES

10/26/2006

Join the Detroit Historical Society for the new History Sundays series, which presents a variety of local history topics every Sunday at 1 p.m. at the Detroit Historical Museum.

November 5 – The History of Indian Village Community

Local historian Bob Cosgrove presents the story of one of Detroit's most historic and unique neighborhoods.

November 12 – The Fashion Industry in Detroit

Detroit fashion designer Dana Keaton unveils the history of the Detroit fashion industry and explains the ins and outs of working in the local fashion scene.

November 19 -- Techno Music In and Around Detroit

Liz Copeland, host of "Alternate Take with Liz Copeland" on WDET 101.9 FM, and Brendan Gillen, performer and free-lance electronic music writer, talk about the evolution of Techno music in metro Detroit.

November 26 -- Book Signing and Meet the Author: Romie Minor

Romie Minor, author of the recent book "Detroit's Thanksgiving Day Parade," discusses the history of one of metro Detroit's greatest annual traditions.

Each event is free to the public with the purchase of regular Museum admission.
