The Detroit Historical Society, with support from the Flagstar and DTE Foundations is pleased to offer a Full-time, limited term opportunity with its Collections Department. The position will play an integral part in the Society’s ongoing effort to digitize its collection of 250,000 Detroit-specific artifacts. Up to this point digitization of the artifact collection was limited to two-dimensional objects and film, but the purchase of a new automated digital photography system will allow the Society to begin systematically digitizing its three-dimensional holdings. The Digitization Coordinator will lead this effort; with the Society’s uniquely Detroit automobile collection the first up to be photographed.

Day to day work will include selecting artifacts for photography, removing them from their various storage locations, performing metadata and condition updates, photographing the objects, and returning them to their storage locations using a motorized vehicle mover. The Coordinator will then work with the Manager of Digital Projects to connect the new object images each artifact’s individual record in the Society’s Past Perfect Collections Management System and see each record through to completion in the form of its uploading to the Society’s Past Perfect Online digital collection site. In addition to the day to day work with the automated photography system the Coordinator will be working with and supervising a rotating team of volunteers assisting with the project. Duties will include training volunteers on how to use the photography system as well as supervising these volunteers while they work on site and assist in the handling and photography of Society artifacts.

This 35-hour work week appointment will last 1 year.
