TAKE “A VOYAGE INTO HISTORY” SUNDAY, OCTOBER 12 AT THE DOSSIN GREAT LAKES MUSEUM

DETROIT - The Detroit Historical Society continues its monthly Film Series with “A Voyage into History” at the Dossin Great Lakes Museum on Sunday, October 12. Admission is free.

Produced by the Noble Odyssey Foundation, “A Voyage into History” follows U.S. Naval Sea Cadets as they receive underwater archaeological training and explore the Great Lakes’ underwater landscape and changing shorelines. Due to water levels in the Great Lakes changing by hundreds of feet over time, ancient shorelines have been preserved underwater, such as the remains of prehistoric forests, stumps and logs, and even evidence of human habitation. Running time for the film is 46 minutes.

The Detroit Historical Society will host two more Sunday screenings at the Dossin Museum this year. On November 9, visitors can see “Raising the Anchor of the Edmund Fitzgerald,” and “Rouse Simmons: The Christmas Tree Ship” will be screened on December 14.

The Dossin Great Lakes Museum, located at 100 Strand Drive on Belle Isle, is open Saturdays and Sundays from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Admission is free for all, all the time. Permanent exhibits include Built by the River in the John A. and Marlene L. Boll Foundation Gallery, the Miss Pepsi vintage 1950s championship hydroplane, the Gothic Room from the City of Detroit III, a bow anchor from the S.S. Edmund Fitzgerald, the pilothouse from the Great Lakes freighter S.S. William Clay Ford in the Wayne and Joan Webber Foundation Gallery, and one of the largest known collections of scale model ships in the world.
